THE EXECUTION OF BLAND.—The scenes and incidents connected with and growing out of the hanging of Hiram Bland at Bloomfield recently, if correctly represented to us, are sufficient to excite in the breast of every one, not entirely brutal, mingled feelings of horror and disgust. While the miserable culprit was struggling in life's last throes, one brute in human form was heard to exclaim, "good!" It is also said that whisky was passed around freely while the victim was still struggling, and the ribald jest having reference to the occasion was heard on all sides. But the darkest feature, one which would willingly blot out from the history of the transaction, was the presence of a large number of females, some with babes at their breasts, others with small children at their sides, dispersed about among the crowd, justified by drunken men, the voluntary listeners to vulgar jests and witnessess of a scene, from which the gentle nature of woman might be expected to turn with a shudder of horror. But they seemed to relish the "show" with as much gusto as the most uncouth biped of the male gender on the "turf." God forgive me, for, perhaps, they knew not what they did!

Bland begged to "let off" just fifteen minutes before 12 o'clock. He was taken to the gallows about one hour previous. Huckleberry v. Sugg, Adams, Error, Clarke C. C. Petition for re-hearing granted.

Bratkebridge et al. v. Dawson. Appeal—Allen C. C. Petition for re-hearing granted.

Hutton et al. v. Dunton. Appeal—Allen C. C. Petition for re-hearing granted.

McDonald v. D. J. D. by Dutton against Hutton et al., on a replevin bond, conditioned that said Hutton would prosecute the suit to effect and return the property replevied if so adjudged. Breaches, that the plaintiff's suit was not prosecuted with effect, and that judgment for a return was rendered, but no re-trial made. Pleas—Nat'l rec'd.

E. We are authorised by Mr. P. P. Bailey, agent of the exploded company in this place, to give notice that he will cancel all policies issued by him, and refund the amount of premium on the unexpired term of the insurance. Mr. B. does this on his own responsibility, and without any assurance that he will be reimbursed by the company; but he is unwilling that any one should suffer loss through his agency in the matter. This conduct is highly honorable and commendable on the part of Mr. Bailey.

Supreme Court Decisions, May Term, '51.

A NEW SOURCE OF FRAUD.—The public will wake up on these mornings and open their eyes to a source of extensive mischief, in the shape of Fire and Life Insurance companies, as ever to be found in the Banking System. By no means are all of them suspicious, but many of them are, and not only chieftains, but rotten to the core. One of the biggest affairs in the concern that has lately exploded in New Orleans. That one however, did not reach to this meridian with its mischiefs. There is one mentioned by the St. Louis Republican, of Saturday last, which will reach us and has reached us, and we predict, pretty seriously.

Associate Judges.—The Election Notice issued by the Sheriff of this county states that two Associate Judges are to be elected. The new constitution, which, if adopted, will go into operation in October of the present year, abolishes the office, and as there can be no doubt of the adoption of the new constitution, it is entirely unnecessary to elect Associate Judges; no nominations have therefore been made for that office.

THE CANVASS.—We have given up most of the room usually devoted to editorials, this week, to our correspondents; and they have heard the speeches of the candidates for Congress better enabled to judge of their fitness for the station to which they aspire than we are. It will be seen that Judge Borden fully sustains the high reputation he has always borne as a clear-headed well-informed politician and firm democrat; while his Rev. competitor falls far short of what he has been represented by his friends to be, and proves himself as arrant a demagogue as he was in former days, when he run himself entirely down and could no longer be elected to any office, although living in a strong whig county. The old leaven is still in him, and we much fear his professions of religion were only assumed as a cloak to cover his political deformities. His plea of no partyism,—that common subterfuge of whiggery when among democrats, is altogether too flimsy, and must excite a smile of contempt from all who know what a whig he is, and always has been.—Samuel Brewster a no-party man! This is the richest joke we have heard this season, and throws the attempts of the clowns in the People's Circus (good as they are) far in the shade!

And this is the man whom democrats are expected to vote for, because forsaking him in his professing to preach the gospel! and christians are expected to support, because he professes to be a christian. A democrat must assuredly wear his political principles as loosely as the Rev. gentleman does his religious ones, who can vote for him on such grounds; and all professing christians owe it to themselves and to the faith they profess, to put the seal of reprobation on such a miserable attempt to make religion a stalking-horse to political ambition—such a virtual stealing of the living of heaven to serve the devil. We do not think Mr. Brewster worthy the support even of his own party; and he assuredly has no claims on any democrat for his vote. If he should be elected to Congress he would of course vote for whig measures, and cast his vote for a whig President; if unfortunately the next Presidential election should devolve on Congress. What democrat, at all worthy the name, can vote for such a man under such circumstances? Their duty is plain. They ought to vote for Judge Borden, the nominee of their party, and the champion of its principles. A man every way worthy their support—one who will correctly represent their views in the councils of the nation—and whose talents, political knowledge, and statesmanlike views will command the respect and esteem of his fellow Legislatives.

THE CANAL.—The repairs on the break in the Feeder are so nearly completed that water will be ready to-day. All the other breaks are repaired, and by tomorrow or Monday, boats will be enabled to pass.

PENNSYLVANIA.—The following is the ticket nominated by the Democracy of Pennsylvania for the approaching election: For Governor, Col. William H. Bigler; Canal Commissioner, Gen. Seth Clover; Judges of the Supreme Court, John B. Gibson, Jeremiah Black, James Campbell, Ellis Lewis, and Walter H. Lowrie.

WHITELEY COUNTY.—The democrats of Whiteley have nominated David B. Litchfield, candidate for Representative; H. McLearen for Clerk; Jacob Wunderlich for Treasurer; L. Adams and A. M. Collins for Associate Judges; and Sylvester Konop for coroner. We hope the democracy will do their duty, and elect the whole ticket. They can it is well.

We are assured that Judge Borden will receive the full democratic vote, and we may set Whiteley down as good for 50 majority for us.

Spalding, Rogers, and Van Orden's Peacock's Circus exhibited here on Monday last to the largest audience ever collected in the place. It is estimated that not less than 3000 persons were present, and all were highly delighted with the matchless performances, and kept in a roar of laughter by the wit and humor of the intrepid clowns. We look upon it as the best circus that has ever visited Fort Wayne.

The breaks in the canal prevented the company from filling the appointments west, and they consequently exhibited here on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, drawing good houses at each exhibition.

O. POTTER!—The Post master at Leo informs us that O. Potter has posted off to Michigan, "bag and baggage," leaving us minus $9 374 due for subscription to Sentinel. We would caution the Wolverines to be on the lookout for him, as there is no telling what a man mean enough to cheat the printer, would be capable of doing. We'll allow any one 50 or 75 per cent who will collect the account from the scamp. No wonder printers get rich!

The Delphi Journal (whig) says:— The news from the 10th district is very cheering. No much doubt but Borden will be beaten for Congress by S. Brenton, than whom a more worthy man does not live." This will be news to persons living in this district, and a verification of the old adage, "you should go from home to hear news." If there is no better foundation for the opinion of Mr. Brenton's worthiness than there is for his success in the campaign, we are afraid his character does not stand very high.

Judge Borden's Speech at Newberg.—We had the pleasure of listening to a masterly speech from the Hon. James W. Borden on Saturday, the 5th of July. The people of Lagrange and Noble counties were out in large numbers, and listened with profound attention to a speech which elicited frequent demonstrations of applause and satisfaction.

The judge gave a clear and convincing elucidation of the Tariff question; completely exploding the doctrine of specific duties, and rendering it plain to the dullest comprehension, that the ad valorem principle was the only true one to apply in the levying of duties. The assumption of the manufacturers needed "protection" from government, and the shape of high Tariff was also completely exploded by the Judge, as it was that it was the Agriculture, the farmer, who needed protection, instead of the Manufacturers—showing by a course of practical illustrations and indisputable facts, that the cry for "protection to manufacturers" was only a decoy to lead legislation into a blind support of oppressive monopolies. On this question, the Judge is admitted by sensible men of both parties, to be far ahead of Brenton, whose brief and careful allusions to the same subject, in his speeches, show him to be poorly posted on this question, so vitally important to the Western people.

On the subject of Land Reform, the Judge's remarks were eloquent and forcible. He was in favor of giving the Public Lands to actual settlers, instead of selling them for little more than nothing to speculators and monopolists. The increase in the general wealth, prosperity and happiness of the country would be a much greater and more enduring source of revenue to men who were interested in keeping them out of the hands of the King's Laborer, until they could demand exorbitant profits upon their purchases money.

Failure of the Knox County (Ia) Insurance Company.—The affairs of this company are represented by creditors, who have been to Vincennes, to be in a bad way. It is "broken flat." There were creditors there from different States, all anxious to get something for losses incurred; but it was no go. The treasurer had not a cent in it. One of our citizens, whose claim had been existing for months, and had been adjusted by the board of underwriters, was compelled to return without any satisfaction whatever—except the conviction that his debt was entirely lost to him.

This company, as we have had the matter represented to us, never had any pecuniary account,—never had any "bottom." Its policies are plastered all over Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan &c., and have taxed the mercantile and especially the agricultural interest to a very high extent, for whose benefit may now be easily estimated.—Cin. Enquirer.

Blond begged to "let off" just fifteen minutes before 12 o'clock. He was taken to the gallows about one hour previous. The interior was principally spent in prayer and in singing. He, however, died without hope, as he said. Calm: for a cup of water, he remarked it was the last drink he ever expected to take, as he would soon be in a country where there was no water. He confessed that his former confession was false, that he had deliberately killed Walker. He also said that he and a brother-in-law killed a boy some years ago by tying him upon an ox's back in the woods.

He desired to give the signal himself when the rope was to be cut, which was by dropping a handkerchief. When the time came the party let go the handkerchief, but suddenly clutched it with a grip of despair. But the tragedy was soon over.

After the execution, some ten or a dozen fights ensued by way of after-piece. One man drew a knife and was only prevented from taking life by the interference of bystanders. So much for the example of public executions.—Bloomington Reporter.

Mr. JOHN FRANKLIN.—English papers received by the Europe make mention of some supposed traces of this lost navigator, in regard to whose fate the whole world is so deeply interested. The fact that the health of the noble-hearted Lady Franklin is fast failing under long and anxious suspense, lends additional interest to this report. The following is the account:

The report that a cairn of stones, raised by Sir John Franklin's expedition, had been discovered in Jones' Sound in 1818, by the Prince of Wales whaler, says the Liverpool Times, of the 14th, has received within these few days, a very distinct confirmation, rendering the statement by far the most important—presumptive or otherwise—which has reached us.

William Miller, a seaman on board the Prince of Wales, states on oath, that he was on board that vessel (whaler) in 1848, when, early in September, during very thick weather, he entered (as they believed) Lancaster Sound and steered west advancing slowly.—The fog was very dense, and they, therefore, had to stop.

THE CHOLERA.—The cholera is again approaching the lakes. At Belvoir, Huron county, they have had several cases, and two or three deaths. At Shelby, Richland county, there have been six or eight deaths, the disease being confined to two families. We learn from a resident of this county, who was at Sandusky city on Wednesday last, that there were two cases in that place on the day before.—Fremont Freeman.

PAKES v. EDDALS.—Error. Allen C. C. Judgment affirmed with three cent damages. Pratelk v. Spencer. Allen C. C. PERKINS, J. Assumpson commenced 1848, for goods sold, and C. C. Defendant pleaded that he did not promise within six years. Replication that the demand claimed was due upon a running account between the parties as merchants. Demurrer to replication sustained. Judgment for defendant. Prior to the Rev. Code of 1813, there was no statute of limitations in this state upon running accounts between merchant and merchant; it is insisted that the provision in that code extending such a statute to those accounts is prospective only in its operation and does not bar an action on such accounts till after the expiration of six years from its coming into force.

Held. That it is insufficient. If the judgment mentioned in the second plea was obtained by fraud, the defendant's remedy is by a bill in chancery. Petition for re-hearing overruled.

PARKS v. EDDALS.—Error. Allen C. C. Judgment affirmed with three cent damages. Pratelk v. Spencer. Allen C. C. PERKINS, J. Assumpson commenced 1848, for goods sold, and C. C. Defendant pleaded that he did not promise within six years. Replication that the demand claimed was due upon a running account between the parties as merchants. Demurrer to replication sustained. Held. That the Statute in force when the suit was brought must govern; that the Statute of 1843 applies to this case, and is part of the remedy. Judgment affirmed. Petition for rehearing overruled.

The Fort Wayne Sentinel.

SATURDAY, JULY 19, 1851.

The Gannex.—We have given up most of the room usually devoted to editorials, this week, to our correspondents; and they having heard the speeches of the candidates for Congress are better enabled to judge of their fitness for the station to which they aspire than we are. It will be seen that Judge Borden fully sustains the high reputation he has always borne as a clear-headed well-informed politician and firm democrat; while his Rev. competitor falls far short of what he has been represented by his friends to be, and proves himself as a mere demagogue, as he was in former days, when he ran himself entirely down and could no longer be elected to any office, although living in a strong whig county. The old leaven is still in him, and we must test his professions of religion were only assumed as a cloak to cover his political deformities. His plan of no partyism,—that common subterfuge of whiggery when among democrats, is altogether too flimsy, and must excite a smile of contempt from all who know how rabid a whig he is, and always has been.—Samuel Breton a no-party man! This is the richest joke we have heard this season, and驯es the attempt of the chowns in the People's Circus (good as they are) far in the shade!

And this is the man whom democrats are expected to vote for, because formerly he has been professing to preach the gospel and christians are expected to support, because he too professes to be a christian. A democrat must sincerely wear his political principles as loosely as the Rev. gentleman does his religious ones, who can vote for him on such grounds; and all professing christians owe it to themselves and to the faith they profess, to put the seal of reprobation on such a miserable attempt to make religion a walking-house to political ambition—such a virtual stealing of the living of leaves to serve the devilin. We do not think Mr. Breton worthy the support even of his own party; and he assuredly has no claims on any democrat for his vote. If he should be elected to Congress he would of course vote for whig measures, and cast his vote for a whig President, if unfortunately the next Presidential election should devolve on Congress. What democrat, at all worthy the name, can vote for such a man under such circumstances? Their duty is plain. They ought to vote for Judge Borden, the nomine of their party, and the champion of its principles. A man every way worthy their support—or a whig will correctly represent their views in the councils of the nation—and whose talents, political knowledge, and statesmanlike views will command the respect and esteem of his fellow legislators.

The Canal.—The repairs on the break in the Rorder are nearly completed that water will be let in to-day. All the other breaks are required, and by tomorrow or Monday, boats will be enabled to pass.

PENNSYLVANIA.—The following is the ticket nominated by the Democracy of Pennsylvania for the approaching election: For Governor, Col. William H. Bigler; Canal Commissioner, Gen. Seth Clover; Judges of the Supreme Court, John B. Gibson, Jeremiah Black, James Clegg, Ellis Lewis, and Walter H. Lowrie.

WHITLEY COUNTY.—The democrats of Whiting have nominated David B. Litchfield as candidate for Representatives; H. McFetrich for Clerk; Jacob Wunderlich for Treasurer; L. Adams and A. M. Collins for Associate Judges; and Sylvester Knapp for coroner. We hope the democracy will do their duty, and elect the whole ticket. They can if they will.

We are assured that Judge Borden will receive the full democratic vote, and we may set Whiting down as good for 50 majority for him.

Spalding, Regan, and Van Orden's Panto's Circus exhibited here on Monday last to the largest audience ever collected in the place. It is estimated that not less than 3000 persons were present, and all were highly delighted with the matchless performances, and kept in a roar of laughter by the wit and humor of the inimitable clowns. We look upon it as the best circus that has ever visited Fort Wayne.

The breaks in the canal prevented the company from filling the appointments well, and they consequently exhibited here on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, drawing good houses at each exhibition.

O. Potter.—The Post master at Leo informs us that O. Potter has packed off to Michigan, "bag and baggage," leaving us about $9,000 due for subscription to Sentinel. We would caution the Wolverines to be on the lookout for him, as there is no telling what a man mad enough to cheat the postmaster, would be capable of doing. We will allow any one 50 or 75 per cent who will collect the account from the scamp. No wonder printers get rich.

The Delphi Journal (whig) says— "The news from the Ind district is very cheering. Not much doubt but Borden will be beaten by Congress by S. Borden, whom a more worthy man does not live." This will be news to persons living in this district, and a verification of the old adage, "you should go from home to hear news." If there is no better foundation for the opinion of Mr. Borden, we are afraid his character does not stand very high.

New York, July 11.—The Courier and Enquirer possesses information which leads to the belief that the annexation of Lower California to the United States, so as to make another slave State, is contemplated.

It is sanctioned by able and competent men, and the success of the movement is established beyond a doubt. Little or no opposition may be expected.

A New Source of Fraud.—The public will wake up on these mornings, and open their eyes to some of the extensive mischiefs, in the shape of Fire and Life Insurance Companies, as ever they found in the rotten Banking System. By no means are all of them suspicious, but many of them are, and not only suspicious, but noted to the core. One of the biggs affairs is the concern that has lately exploded in New Orleans. That one however did not reach in this meridian with its no-clubs. Here is one mentioned by the St. Louis Republican, of Saturday last, which will reach us and reach us, and we predict, pretty seriously:

Associate Judge.—The Election Notice issued by the Sheriff of this country states that two Associate Judges are to be elected. The new constitution, which, if adopted, will go into operation in October of the present year, abolishes the office, and as there can be no doubt of the adoption of the new constitution, it is entirely unnecessary to elect Associate Judges; no nominations have therefore been made.

The EXECUTION of BLAND.—The scenes and incidents connected with and growing out of the hanging of Bland at Bloomfield are, if correctly represented to us, sufficient to excite in the breast of every one, not entirely brutal, mingled feelings of horror and disgust. While the miserable culprit struggling in life's last throes, one brute in human form was heard to exclaim "good!" It is also said that whilst was passed around freely while the victim was still struggling, and the ribald jests bearing reference to the occasion was heard on all sides. But the darkest feature, one which we would willingly blot from the history of the transaction, was the presence of a large number of females with babes at their breasts, others with small children at their sides, dispersed about the crowd, jesting to vulgar jests and jesting of a scene, from which the gentle nature of woman might be expected to turn with a shudder of horror. But they seemed to relish the "show" with much gusto as the most gaudy biped of the male gender on the "starboard" of God forgive them, for, perhaps, they knew not what they did.

Bland begged to be "let off" just fifteen minutes before 12 o'clock. He was taken to the gallows about one hour previous. The sentence was principally passed in prayer and singing. He, however, died without hope or remorse, it was the last drink he ever expected to take, as he would soon be in the world where there was no water. He confessed that his former confession was false, that he had deliberately killed Walker. He also said that he and a brother-in-law killed a boy some years ago by tying him upon an ox's back in the woods.

He desired to give the signal himself when the rope was to be cut, which was by dropping a handkerchief. When the time came, partly led by the handkerchief, but evidently clutching it with a grip of despair. But the tragedy was soon over.

After the execution, some ten or a dozen shots ensued by way of after-piece. One man drew a knife and was only prevented from taking life by the interference of bystanders. So much for the example of public executions.—Bloomington Reporter.

Sir JOHN FRANKLIN.—English papers received by the Europa make mention of some unusual traits of this last navigator, in regard to whose fate the whole world is so deeply interested. The fact that the health of the noble-hearted Lady Franklin is fast failing under long and anxious suspense adds additional interest to this report. The following is the account:

The report that a cabin of stones, raised by Sir John Franklin's expedition, had been discovered in Jones' Sound in 1818, by the Prince of Wales whaler, says the Liverpool Times, of the 14th, has received within these few days, a very distinct confirmation, rendering the statement by far the most important—presumptive orthodoxy—which has resulted as follows:

William Miller, a seaman on board the Prince of Wales, states on oath, that he was on board that vessel (whaler) in 1845, when, early in September, during very thick weather, they entered (as they believed) Lancaster Sound and steered west, advancing slowly. The fog continued heavy for some days, when it suddenly lifted, and high land was seen on the larboard side, over the mast head. The captain being at first doubtful if it were the land of icebergs or of land, sent a boat off to ascertain the fact, and of this party Wm. Miller found one.

He states that on landing, the marks of those who were distinctly visible in the mud, above high water mark, by was a small sinking place blackened by fire, and a little further on a well built cabin about four or five feet high, of which the party pulled away a few stones, but being recalled by a signal from the ship, which was being driven in shore by the current, were compelled to return on board immediately.

It was believed by the master of the Prince of Wales, the captain Lee of Hull, that he was canvassing the district in company, but had advanced in a westerly course up this sound rather a raw fish appearance to the people. He has at length confessed. Now, we are prepared to make the prediction that, in all the essentials of good speaking, in sound practical views, political knowledge and logical argument, Judge Borden will every day prove himself Franklin's superior. In the disposition to make the canvass a personal affair—in the faculty of talking "smooth talkings," for hours, we yield the palm to Borden—and willingly acknowledge that he is likely, in this canvass, to establish a reputation, viz.—that of being a natural talker, an artful dodge, altogether untrue and unscrupulous for a preacher of the gospel, and too non-committal and uncertain to satisfy the people's estimate of what a safe, just and reliable representative should be. The masses of the district are sensible, discriminating and honest; and before such audiences, Judge Borden will constantly add to his strength and popularity. We say this, not because he is a socialist, but we trust that a vessel specially directed thither will be held at once despatched. The Times says: The prints are entirely out of the hands of any of those now employed upon the search, and will not likely be approached by any of them; for although Sir John Franklin is the democratic candidate, and probably the most popular man in the country, it is evident that he is not a whig, and the mass of the inimitable clowns. We look upon it as the host circus that has ever visited Fort Wayne.

The breaks in the canal prevented the company from filling the appointments well, and they consequently exhibited here on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, drawing good houses at each exhibition.

Washington, July 3.—The District Attorney, after consulting with the Attorney General and President, has brought the attention of the grand jury to alleged frauds of Mexican commissioners, and numbers of witnesses, embracing some of the Mexican legation, have been examined, and released relatively. It is reported that Borden, Mexican Boundary Commissioner, has been recalled, and John S. Bryant is mentioned as his successor.

New York, July 11.—The Courier and Enquirer possesses information which leads to the belief that the annexation of Lower California to the United States, so as to make another slave State, is contemplated.

It is sanctioned by able and competent men, and the success of the movement is established beyond a doubt. Little or no opposition may be expected.

A New Source of Fraud.—The public will wake up on these mornings, and open their eyes to some of the extensive mischiefs, in the shape of Fire and Life Insurance Companies, as ever they found in the rotten Banking System. By no means are all of them suspicious, but many of them are, and not only suspicious, but noted to the core. One of the biggs affairs is the concern that has lately exploded in New Orleans. That one however did not reach in this meridian with its no-clubs. Here is one mentioned by the St. Louis Republican, of Saturday last, which will reach us and reach us, and we predict, pretty seriously:

Associate Judge.—The Election Notice issued by the Sheriff of this country states that two Associate Judges are to be elected. The new constitution, which, if adopted, will go into operation in October of the present year, abolishes the office, and as there can be no doubt of the adoption of the new constitution, it is entirely unnecessary to elect Associate Judges; no nominations have therefore been made.

The EXECUTION of BLAND.—The scenes and incidents connected with and growing out of the hanging of Bland at Bloomfield are, if correctly represented to us, sufficient to excite in the breast of every one, not entirely brutal, mingled feelings of horror and disgust. While the miserable culprit struggling in life's last throes, one brute in human form was heard to exclaim "good!" It is also said that whilst was passed around freely while the victim was still struggling, and the ribald jests bearing reference to the occasion was heard on all sides. But the darkest feature, one which we would willingly blot from the history of the transaction, was the presence of a large number of females with babes at their breasts, others with small children at their sides, dispersed about the crowd, jesting to vulgar jests and jesting of a scene, from which the gentle nature of woman might be expected to turn with a shudder of horror. But they seemed to relish the "show" with much gusto as the most gaudy biped of the male gender on the "starboard" of God forgive them, for, perhaps, they knew not what they did.

Bland begged to be "let off" just fifteen minutes before 12 o'clock. He was taken to the gallows about one hour previous. The sentence was principally passed in prayer and singing. He, however, died without hope or remorse, it was the last drink he ever expected to take, as he would soon be in the world where there was no water. He confessed that his former confession was false, that he had deliberately killed Walker. He also said that he and a brother-in-law killed a boy some years ago by tying him upon an ox's back in the woods.

He desired to give the signal himself when the rope was to be cut, which was by dropping a handkerchief. When the time came, partly led by the handkerchief, but evidently clutching it with a grip of despair. But the tragedy was soon over.

After the execution, some ten or a dozen shots ensued by way of after-piece. One man drew a knife and was only prevented from taking life by the interference of bystanders. So much for the example of public executions.—Bloomington Reporter.
